Do I have to file a separate tax extension for business and personal needs?

Jared - 2020-07-20 - Tax Extensions

Yes. The IRS generally requires different tax extension applications for personal extensions and business extensions. The exception is for single member LLC businesses. If you own a single member LLC, then you can file a personal income tax extension (Form 4868) which will extend both your personal and business tax deadline.

- Tags
- Business Extension